

REDCLIFF REVIEW

Pro. Library 1130
EDMONTON

OUR SLOGAN: An Industrial Metropolis of Industrious People Who Pull Together.

Volume 27

THE REDCLIFF REVIEW

THURSDAY, MARCH 2nd 1939

Number 35

Regular Meeting of Town Council Monday Evening

Several Citizens Apply For Town Property Prices

Town Council met last Monday evening with mayor Sangster and all councillors present including the newly elected councillor Mr. J. Hitchen.

Mr. F. Parsons was at the meeting and asked to purchase a building on Fifth St. Council decided to sell the building at the price offered.

Mr. J. Hadden, Alberta engineer, agreed to a meeting with the council for the discussion of town business some day this week.

Two citizens asked to rent property owned by the town, and satisfactory arrangements were made re same.

Harvey and Morrison auditors applied for re engagement at town auditors which position they have filled for some time. Council was agreed on their re engagement.

The School Board made the regular requisition for fund which was approved by council.

Mr. Wall, who is an official of the Town Property applied to Council for an agreement release of the old building west of town. Council made satisfactory arrangements in this regard.

Mr. Matsuka applied for purchase of building on 1st Street. Council agreed to arrange for the price of said building.

It appears there are a number of young people in town who have been causing disturbances around various houses lately. According to report, some of these young people will be in serious trouble as there have been complaints of their conduct, to council.

Accounts from the finance committee were submitted for payment.

Town Secretary-Treasurer and Mr. P. Broughton were appointed assessors for 1939. Councillor Willis requested that deep water sloughs in the district be filled with rubbish so children will be safer.

Mr. Nellie McClung, noted Canadian writer will give an address in Medicine Hat on Friday evening in Fifth Avenue United Church.

Medicine Hat Little Theatre Group took second place at the Alberta Dramatic Festival held in Edmonton last week with their play "Bill Stands the House" under the capable direction of Mrs. L. N. Laidlaw. Miss Finlay of the Medicine Hat Group was adjudged by British adjudicator Skilkin, the best actress of the festival.

The Rebekahs and Oddfellows are having a five day assembly in Medicine Hat from March 6th to the 10th inclusive, the occasion being the 29th session of the Rebekah Assembly, the 34th annual session of the Grand Lodge, the 29th Annual Session of the Grand Encampment held in the Hat and the 50th anniversary of Medicine Hat Lodge no. 3.

Lone Bone Joe's Spinal Column

Well here I am again folks. Ole Rory Bory Alice is sure puttin' on some fine kintofence these nights. They aint no jiltin' as could compare with her antics. No, nor Salomy neither. She's got Sally Rand all beat to hell. Aint nary a bubble there she goes all night a stretchin' and a wiggle all over that there sky. You should see her. First she's blue (don't wonder at that it's so damn cold) then she's green, then degen, it often she don't turn red. Just like one of them little lizards on a chain that ladies used for broches years ago. Comeston I think they were called. Any ways Alice Rory Bory is sure goin' to town. A fella up here was sayin we ought to put on a show of Alice, an' ne be if we advertised it right we could her all cretin up here to see Alice do her dance just like Sally at the worlds Fair. Gosh they aint anything a coud touch it. No repeats, always a new angle, and positively no fans.

Maybe we could have a Box Social like the one I went to in Redcliff long ago. Gee money sure rolled in easy that night. Only they didn't have no fan damin of course. But there was a lot of swell lookin' girls and a lot of open handed folks raisin' money for the church.

Yeh, I was there, went up with about twenty other folks from the Hat. Course I was a bit younger then. Gosh how these boys bid for their boxes.

There was one fellow named Merv Brown was bid up to twenty eight dollars for his girls box.

This social was at Mr. White's home. He had two swell lookin' daughters. Punny, how I remember the names of the good lookin' gals and I can hardly remember the names of the young chaps except Pete Skidde. There was a girl Katie from the Hat that played the piano swell.

Another good looker who was purty shy an' played the piano too was Trina Redcliff. Any Woodcock was her name. I couldn't get very close to her there was so many guys hangin' round. But they sure had a good crowd and lots of fun. Of course the guy went to look at the girls and besides their mothers was darn cooks. They made lots of money too. The kiddin was so high you'd a thought you was in the Chicago Wheel pit an they was a crier on the market.

Ifen the folks down east had ever seen that amount of money raised so easy they'd a dropped in their tracks. They sure was a libral bunch in Redcliff in them days. Praps they're just the same now.

A fella writ an asked me why I called this a Spinal Column? Well it's on account it's goin' to have lots of spine to it. Ifen folks aint got spine they can't take it so they aint no good to man nor beast. I'll be talkin' to grown folks and kids an' animals. Per instance I had a pel do by the name of Lucy a few years ago an' she was a corker fer stayin' out late at night. Lucy, I s'ffen you don't get in here earlier I'm goin' to lick the fat outen you. You got to pull yer self together, have a little back.

Vestry of St. Ambrose Hold Social Evening

Good Crowd Enjoys Cards And Dancing

The members of the Vestry of St. Ambrose Church held a very enjoyable social in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. There was a splendid crowd, twenty odd tables engaging in cards.

The Ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. Johansen and the consolation by Miss Martha Balcer. Cards first went to Mr. N. Williams and the consolation to Mrs. N. Lawson who was playing as a gentleman.

After cards, dancing was enjoyed. Mr. Geo. Thompson supplied the music.

Bounteous refreshments were served by the ladies at the close of a very enjoyable evening.

bone an' come home. No self respectin' dog would stay out late as you be. Well, a few nights later ifen that low downound wench, out again. It was dark as all pit out. I was so mad I kicked the Quebec heater an' the stove pipes all fell down. Well then I was madder still an' I s'ffen "Lacey, I s'ffen, 'I'm goin' to beat you and damn well freeze as far as I'm concerned". Well I yanks off my clothes and jumps into bed, the bunk shivers like a underdog jelly. That bed was as warm as toast an' I s'ffen "It wasn't Lucy all curled up and snorin' as innocent lookin' as can be."

Well you see it done her good to be spoke right out to like I done. But degenne it if she didn't crawl into my bed every night after that. I didn't mind so much when she was dry but when she would go out duck-bustin' or chasin' skunks in they crawl in, I just had to begin all over again an' tell her what I thought of her. That dog sure was a caution.

Well as long till next week. Lo to Bone Joe From Lone Bone Crick

Mr. S. Further who is the chairman of Tilley School district left for Edmonton to meet the Cabinet on several business matters for the district.

BUY SILVERWIN WILLIAMS PAINERS, VARNISHES AND ENAMELS AT RAE HARDWARE, MEDICINE HAT.

Pope Pius XI and Canadian Rockies

In his earlier days the late Pope Pius XI achieved considerable fame as a mountaineer and scaled most of the well-known Alpine peaks. After his accession to the Papal Throne he one day laid a party of Canadian visitors in Rome that he had always been interested in the Canadian Rockies and that at one time he had hoped to visit them. There were several mountaineers there, he said, he would very much have liked to climb.

The facts directed his path to other regions, calculating in the chair of St. Peter, but the story was brought back to Canada and at the direction of Sir Edward Ross, a collection of photographs of the Rockies was bound together in a handsome portfolio of white leather and presented to the Holy Father with the compliments of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Sir Edward received a most courteous and kindly acknowledgment which is now preserved in the Company's archives.

Local Legion to Have an Evening On March 10th

Will Be Banquet and Program During the Evening

According to reports there is going to be a most interesting banquet and a fine program at Cliff Hall on Friday evening March the 10th.

The evening gathering is being held by the local Canadian Legion and it is expected that a number of ladies and gentlemen who are members of the Legion will be present.

It is assured that there will be a fine supper after which arrangements are being made for a good program including several interesting addresses.

Successor to Late Pope Elected Today

Cardinal Pacelli Has Become Pope Pious XII

Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state was elected today as successor to his Holiness Pope Pius XI. He is the 262nd pope of the Roman Catholic Church. He has adopted the name of Pius XII. The date of his Coronation will be announced later.

The new Pope imparted his first papal benediction from St. Peter's to the great throng of people gathered to hear the announcement.

There was a bad fire in Tilley this week, and several buildings were completely destroyed.

At the annual meeting of the local Red Cross Society the following officers were elected: Pres. Rev. H. V. Ellison; Vice Pres. Mr. Harry Johnson; Sec. Treas. Mrs. A. H. Ballantyne.

The Executive is not yet complete owing to the fact that its members are composed of representatives of several organizations in town, and some of them have not yet been appointed. To date, the executive includes Mr. A. Sanderson, representing the Masonic Lodge, Mr. Luna, representing the Dominion Glass Co., Miss Cox for the School, Mrs. Sellhorn for the United Church and Mrs. Sanderson representing the Anglicans.

The Ladies Auxiliary Held Regular Whist

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Legion held their regular weekly whist drive in their club room on Friday evening. Nine tables engaged in play, and as usual a good time was enjoyed by all those present.

First prizes went to Mrs. H. Kitchen and Mrs. Joe. Podesta, the latter playing as a gentleman. Delicious refreshments were served at the close of the evening's entertainment.

Major Bones Amateur Hour at Gordon Memorial

Will Be Held At 8 P.M. On March the 17th

Get your entries in as soon as possible. A limited number only can enter.

Leave your entries at Halls, McGimpsey's or Cook's.

Admission will be adults 25c and children 10c.

Can you sing dance, recite or play? Then come on and strut your stuff at Gordon Memorial on March 17th.

Pie Eating Championship of Redcliff.

Wanted—Ten Would-Be Champions—To Eat Pie.

Among the several good prizes will be a Permanent Wave.

Red Cross Officers Elected Annual Meeting

Some Executive Members Not Yet Appointed

At the annual meeting of the local Red Cross Society the following officers were elected: Pres. Rev. H. V. Ellison; Vice Pres. Mr. Harry Johnson; Sec. Treas. Mrs. A. H. Ballantyne.

The Executive is not yet complete owing to the fact that its members are composed of representatives of several organizations in town, and some of them have not yet been appointed. To date, the executive includes Mr. A. Sanderson, representing the Masonic Lodge, Mr. Luna, representing the Dominion Glass Co., Miss Cox for the School, Mrs. Sellhorn for the United Church and Mrs. Sanderson representing the Anglicans.

GORDON MEMORIAL CHURCH NEWS

Sunday, March 5th, 1939.
Sunday School—10:00 A.M.
Morning Service—11:15.
Monthly morning service with Junior Choir present. Mr. Curtis Buchholz will be ordained into the Eldership of the Church at this service.
The Official Board are making plans for their Annual Major Bones' Amateur Hour to be held in the School Room on Friday night March 17th. Keep this night open and watch for further particulars.

Keep in mind the Big two day Carnival to be held in the Broadway Store on April 21 and 22. The proceeds will be used to further improve Redcliff's new park. Come with the crowd and help.

Engineer Here For Improvement of Water System

Mr. Hadder and Mr. Rindahl Inspect Local Power Plant

Mr. Hadder, a consulting engineer of Calgary was in town today to meet with one of the Town Council Committees with a view to making improvements in our town pump station. Mr. M. Rindahl, who had been on the Council last year as chairman of the Water Works committee was pointed by the Council to go with Mr. Hadder to inspect the water system.

No doubt Mr. Rindahl will be of real assistance in this regard. It is expected Mr. Hadder will be in town for several days.

Regular Meeting Held At Gordon Memorial

Was Held by Young People With Convenor of Missions

The Gordon Memorial Young People met in the Church on Friday evening, February 24th, for their regular meeting with Miss Alice Buchholz as convenor of Missions in charge.

The meeting was opened with a brisk sing-song, the songs of different countries being used.

The theme of the evening was "Learning to live together with the different nationalities in Canada." To illustrate that "In Christ there is no East nor West" interesting talks were given by four of the Group.

A devotional period which followed the discussion closed the meeting.

Notice

Review will Accept Seed Wheat in Exchange For Overdue Subscription Accounts Local Elevator Prices will Determine Value of Wheat

Special Bargain Fares

to

CALGARY

AND RETURN

from REDCLIFF

$4.25

GOOD GOING

March 16, 17, 18

RETURN UNTIL

March 21

Good in Canada only. No baggage checked. For additional information and rates in connection with this special fare, contact Canadian Pacific Travel Agent.

Canadian Pacific

The Show Goes On

POOR MAN'S GOLD

Courtney Ryley Cooper

© Courtney Ryley Cooper
WHL Service

CHAPTER XII—Continued

At last it was over. Jack Hammond walked dully away. A few months before he had waded hip-deep in the waters of Lake Superior, to welcome this girl as his fiancée. Now, in a grunting house, he had stood as a witness while she married another man. His eyes fell on the roulette wheel. Life and roulette, a turn of the wheel, a bet placed at random, a call of the croupier announcing the loser.

Life and Roulette, a Turn of the Wheel.

Behind him, Kay Joyce was sobbing. The croupier never looked back as she knelt against Bruce Kenning's cot. There was little need for gesture. Kenning was all but beyond pain. Hammond reached a hand to his throat. He left the room.

After a time, around the World Annie came out into the entrance where Jack stood talking at random with the croupier.

"Well, the guy's sicked over," she said. "Funny she'd want to marry him, ain't it?" And him dying—

That night, Hammond saw Kay Joyce again, in the hallway of Annie's pavilion. Some of the salutes were given from her features, giving way to the stare of her always excited eyes. Around the World Annie stood at the window, watching the flicking of a snow flurry against the pane.

"And I don't care what you say about it," Annie spat; "this thing was mine and I said 'I played with it.'"

Hammond halted an instant, then started on toward the gambling room in search of Jeanne. Annie called him back.

"You're mixed up in this. What about them claims you signed over to Bruce Kenning?"

Hammond looked at her. "What about them?"

"Where they say good?"

"Why ask?"

Around the World Annie breathed deeply, holding her ponderous bosom. "So Kay Joyce had just got an argument on about them. She says they're here."

ACHING COLDS

Relieve Their Distress
This Easy, Safe Way!

Don't take chances. Rub on soothing, warming Murostero. Relief comes in 15 minutes!

Murostero gets your nose free because it's NOT a nasal spray. It's a "counter-irritant"—soothing, warming, stimulating liniment—helps in quickly relieving lung congestion and pain.

Used by millions for 30 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. Made in Canada. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's Strength, and Baby Strength. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau. All druggists, 40¢ each.

MUROSTERO

MADE IN CANADA

30 DAYS LATER

THERE'S BEEN A REMARKABLE CHANGE IN YOU, NOW, YOU'RE GETTING MORE FUN OUT OF LIFE.

Hammond pressed his lips. "I guess they're," came finally, the married Kenning for them."

"That was," she asked the girl, "no good claim?"

Kay Joyce only glared. Hammond said, "But they were worth millions, Annie."

"Millions?" she put a hand to her head. "Did you say millions?"

"That's the indication."

"My Gawd!" the woman gasped. "And I—she pointed a finger at Hammond—"Remember me telling about a check or note or something he signed over? It was then claim. He must have been willing to look anything to get out of here that night."

Hammond gazed foolishly. This was becoming involved.

"Then you've got a list against them for ten thousand dollars. But Kay inherited them when she married Kenning?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell her," the girl snapped. Annie cut her off.

"Lien, hell. Those become mine who he signed 'em over to me. He said he was coming back the next morning. He didn't come back. And I wanted to give them frontier money a little present. They're swell guys. But my Gawd, I didn't know I was passing 'em out a whole gold mine!"

"You had no right to give that away!" Kay Joyce cried. Then, as Annie faced her, suddenly she smiled.

"Listen, Baby! I gave it to 'em and I ain't squawking. Let's see if you've got the same amount of guts."

"Hell, it's not fair. It was what I was going to live on. That's why I married him—he could look after me. Don't you see?" she gazed wildly at him, saying nothing. What in the world would become of me?"

"Oh, you'll live," said Annie. "It's the transfer record!" Hammond yelled.

"Annie, Annie purred for a cigarette. "I thought I'd look bigger if I told 'em to do that. One of 'em went down to the office as soon as the tent had been put up again."

Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I guess that's the end of it," Kay said.

"No, it's not the end of it. She didn't have any right to do it! I'll fight for my wife's mine—if I have to!"

"Wait a minute, Baby," said Annie. "A dame like you ain't going to take nothing away from the frontier money. Not with a jury of miners doing the deciding. 'Specially when they know all the crookedness there was mixed up in it."

Hammond straightened. A fortune had been taken from all his possible hopes of possession. Now he was about to clinch the argument that would take it from another.

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

30 DAYS LATER

THERE'S BEEN A REMARKABLE CHANGE IN YOU, NOW, YOU'RE GETTING MORE FUN OUT OF LIFE.

Hammond pressed his lips. "I guess they're," came finally, the married Kenning for them."

"That was," she asked the girl, "no good claim?"

Kay Joyce only glared. Hammond said, "But they were worth millions, Annie."

"Millions?" she put a hand to her head. "Did you say millions?"

"That's the indication."

"My Gawd!" the woman gasped. "And I—she pointed a finger at Hammond—"Remember me telling about a check or note or something he signed over? It was then claim. He must have been willing to look anything to get out of here that night."

Hammond gazed foolishly. This was becoming involved.

"Then you've got a list against them for ten thousand dollars. But Kay inherited them when she married Kenning?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell her," the girl snapped. Annie cut her off.

"Lien, hell. Those become mine who he signed 'em over to me. He said he was coming back the next morning. He didn't come back. And I wanted to give them frontier money a little present. They're swell guys. But my Gawd, I didn't know I was passing 'em out a whole gold mine!"

"You had no right to give that away!" Kay Joyce cried. Then, as Annie faced her, suddenly she smiled.

"Listen, Baby! I gave it to 'em and I ain't squawking. Let's see if you've got the same amount of guts."

"Hell, it's not fair. It was what I was going to live on. That's why I married him—he could look after me. Don't you see?" she gazed wildly at him, saying nothing. What in the world would become of me?"

"Oh, you'll live," said Annie. "It's the transfer record!" Hammond yelled.

"Annie, Annie purred for a cigarette. "I thought I'd look bigger if I told 'em to do that. One of 'em went down to the office as soon as the tent had been put up again."

Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I guess that's the end of it," Kay said.

"No, it's not the end of it. She didn't have any right to do it! I'll fight for my wife's mine—if I have to!"

"Wait a minute, Baby," said Annie. "A dame like you ain't going to take nothing away from the frontier money. Not with a jury of miners doing the deciding. 'Specially when they know all the crookedness there was mixed up in it."

Hammond straightened. A fortune had been taken from all his possible hopes of possession. Now he was about to clinch the argument that would take it from another.

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

30 DAYS LATER

THERE'S BEEN A REMARKABLE CHANGE IN YOU, NOW, YOU'RE GETTING MORE FUN OUT OF LIFE.

Hammond pressed his lips. "I guess they're," came finally, the married Kenning for them."

"That was," she asked the girl, "no good claim?"

Kay Joyce only glared. Hammond said, "But they were worth millions, Annie."

"Millions?" she put a hand to her head. "Did you say millions?"

"That's the indication."

"My Gawd!" the woman gasped. "And I—she pointed a finger at Hammond—"Remember me telling about a check or note or something he signed over? It was then claim. He must have been willing to look anything to get out of here that night."

Hammond gazed foolishly. This was becoming involved.

"Then you've got a list against them for ten thousand dollars. But Kay inherited them when she married Kenning?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell her," the girl snapped. Annie cut her off.

"Lien, hell. Those become mine who he signed 'em over to me. He said he was coming back the next morning. He didn't come back. And I wanted to give them frontier money a little present. They're swell guys. But my Gawd, I didn't know I was passing 'em out a whole gold mine!"

"You had no right to give that away!" Kay Joyce cried. Then, as Annie faced her, suddenly she smiled.

"Listen, Baby! I gave it to 'em and I ain't squawking. Let's see if you've got the same amount of guts."

"Hell, it's not fair. It was what I was going to live on. That's why I married him—he could look after me. Don't you see?" she gazed wildly at him, saying nothing. What in the world would become of me?"

"Oh, you'll live," said Annie. "It's the transfer record!" Hammond yelled.

"Annie, Annie purred for a cigarette. "I thought I'd look bigger if I told 'em to do that. One of 'em went down to the office as soon as the tent had been put up again."

Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I guess that's the end of it," Kay said.

"No, it's not the end of it. She didn't have any right to do it! I'll fight for my wife's mine—if I have to!"

"Wait a minute, Baby," said Annie. "A dame like you ain't going to take nothing away from the frontier money. Not with a jury of miners doing the deciding. 'Specially when they know all the crookedness there was mixed up in it."

Hammond straightened. A fortune had been taken from all his possible hopes of possession. Now he was about to clinch the argument that would take it from another.

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

30 DAYS LATER

THERE'S BEEN A REMARKABLE CHANGE IN YOU, NOW, YOU'RE GETTING MORE FUN OUT OF LIFE.

Hammond pressed his lips. "I guess they're," came finally, the married Kenning for them."

"That was," she asked the girl, "no good claim?"

Kay Joyce only glared. Hammond said, "But they were worth millions, Annie."

"Millions?" she put a hand to her head. "Did you say millions?"

"That's the indication."

"My Gawd!" the woman gasped. "And I—she pointed a finger at Hammond—"Remember me telling about a check or note or something he signed over? It was then claim. He must have been willing to look anything to get out of here that night."

Hammond gazed foolishly. This was becoming involved.

"Then you've got a list against them for ten thousand dollars. But Kay inherited them when she married Kenning?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell her," the girl snapped. Annie cut her off.

"Lien, hell. Those become mine who he signed 'em over to me. He said he was coming back the next morning. He didn't come back. And I wanted to give them frontier money a little present. They're swell guys. But my Gawd, I didn't know I was passing 'em out a whole gold mine!"

"You had no right to give that away!" Kay Joyce cried. Then, as Annie faced her, suddenly she smiled.

"Listen, Baby! I gave it to 'em and I ain't squawking. Let's see if you've got the same amount of guts."

"Hell, it's not fair. It was what I was going to live on. That's why I married him—he could look after me. Don't you see?" she gazed wildly at him, saying nothing. What in the world would become of me?"

"Oh, you'll live," said Annie. "It's the transfer record!" Hammond yelled.

"Annie, Annie purred for a cigarette. "I thought I'd look bigger if I told 'em to do that. One of 'em went down to the office as soon as the tent had been put up again."

Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I guess that's the end of it," Kay said.

"No, it's not the end of it. She didn't have any right to do it! I'll fight for my wife's mine—if I have to!"

"Wait a minute, Baby," said Annie. "A dame like you ain't going to take nothing away from the frontier money. Not with a jury of miners doing the deciding. 'Specially when they know all the crookedness there was mixed up in it."

Hammond straightened. A fortune had been taken from all his possible hopes of possession. Now he was about to clinch the argument that would take it from another.

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

30 DAYS LATER

THERE'S BEEN A REMARKABLE CHANGE IN YOU, NOW, YOU'RE GETTING MORE FUN OUT OF LIFE.

Hammond pressed his lips. "I guess they're," came finally, the married Kenning for them."

"That was," she asked the girl, "no good claim?"

Kay Joyce only glared. Hammond said, "But they were worth millions, Annie."

"Millions?" she put a hand to her head. "Did you say millions?"

"That's the indication."

"My Gawd!" the woman gasped. "And I—she pointed a finger at Hammond—"Remember me telling about a check or note or something he signed over? It was then claim. He must have been willing to look anything to get out of here that night."

Hammond gazed foolishly. This was becoming involved.

"Then you've got a list against them for ten thousand dollars. But Kay inherited them when she married Kenning?"

"That's what I've been trying to tell her," the girl snapped. Annie cut her off.

"Lien, hell. Those become mine who he signed 'em over to me. He said he was coming back the next morning. He didn't come back. And I wanted to give them frontier money a little present. They're swell guys. But my Gawd, I didn't know I was passing 'em out a whole gold mine!"

"You had no right to give that away!" Kay Joyce cried. Then, as Annie faced her, suddenly she smiled.

"Listen, Baby! I gave it to 'em and I ain't squawking. Let's see if you've got the same amount of guts."

"Hell, it's not fair. It was what I was going to live on. That's why I married him—he could look after me. Don't you see?" she gazed wildly at him, saying nothing. What in the world would become of me?"

"Oh, you'll live," said Annie. "It's the transfer record!" Hammond yelled.

"Annie, Annie purred for a cigarette. "I thought I'd look bigger if I told 'em to do that. One of 'em went down to the office as soon as the tent had been put up again."

Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I guess that's the end of it," Kay said.

"No, it's not the end of it. She didn't have any right to do it! I'll fight for my wife's mine—if I have to!"

"Wait a minute, Baby," said Annie. "A dame like you ain't going to take nothing away from the frontier money. Not with a jury of miners doing the deciding. 'Specially when they know all the crookedness there was mixed up in it."

Hammond straightened. A fortune had been taken from all his possible hopes of possession. Now he was about to clinch the argument that would take it from another.

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

After a time, there was only the faintest of a smile on his face. "I'm afraid he'll testify for anybody but Bruce Kenning."

"Sergeant Terry had strided into the saloon and stood over me. Now he scratched a match back and held it over the side of his black pig. 'Come on, tried to murder two men, Miss Joyce,' he said. 'Law Sods, in case, Hammond here, the law books should be permitted on the highway. If we furnish the answer, says the Peterborough Examiner, it will be in one word—NO.'"

Sees New Industry

Grower Thinks Canada Will Witness Use of Soy Beans

Despite setbacks during depression years, the soy bean industry in Canada promises to come into its own in the not so distant future. This prediction comes from no less than G. Gordon Finlay, of Northwood, Ont., who may well be described as Canada's Soy Bean King.

"At the present time, the soy bean is used in this country largely for livestock ration, but I see the time when Canada will follow the lead set by the United States and use this product for industrial purposes," said Mr. Finlay.

At present, Canadian soy bean growers are unable to compete with the prices level as established in the United States. They are hoping, however, to persuade the government to get through a tariff on beans coming into this country or else

MONARCH

Medicine Hat

Thurs., Friday, Sat.
March 2, 3, 4
Jane's Best Brand of Fun and Excitement

Jane Withers, in
'The Arizona Wildcat'

with Leo Carillo, Pauline Moore,
William Henry, Henry Wilcox
Also Orphans of the Streets . . .
Fighting for the Only Home
They Know!

Jackie Cooper, in
'Newboys' Home'

with Edmund Lowe, Woody Barrie,
Edward Norris, Samuel S. Hinds,
and the Little Tough Guys

Mon., Tues., Wed.
March 6, 7, 8
When East Meets West . . .
It's a Rodeo of Romance!

Gary Cooper, Merle Oberon, in
'The Cowboy and
The Lady'

with Patsy Kelly, Walter Brennan,
Fuzzy Knight, Mabel Todd

COMING
March 9, 10, 11
Errol Flynn, in
'The Dawn Patrol'

DOG LICENSE AND OTHER LICENSES

All Town Licenses are now required for the New Year. Applications should be made at the Town Hall
to prevent trouble.

J. KITCHEN,
Town Policeman.

Lang Bros., Ltd.

INSURANCE

Fire, Accident,

Life, Sickness

651 2nd St. Medicine Hat

Telephone 3854

Let us Take Care of Your Household Furnishings, And Furniture Requirements

LESK'S
Furniture Store

For New and Better Class
Used Furniture

Third St. Medicine Hat

Interesting Local Items

Mrs. John Wells and two small sons of Trail B. C. are visiting at present with relatives in town.

Mrs. Sellhorn, who has spent the past two months in California visiting her father, returned to her home on Saturday.

Mrs. L. Lewis who has been visiting relatives at Melville, Sask.
for the past couple of weeks, returned home on Tuesday.

His many friends will be sorry to learn that Mr. Jno. Ellis is at present ill in the Medicine Hat hospital.

BUY SHERWIN WILLIAMS
PAINTS, VARNISHES AND
ENAMELS AT THE RAE
HARDWARE MEDICINE HAT

Mr. Monkman of Medicine Hat is relieving at the C. P. R. depot here during the absence of Mr.
Lang, who is holidaying in California at present.

Mr. Meldrum left for Vancouver Saturday on business for the Dominion Glass Co. He and Mr.
J. R. Mackenzie returned yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Lang left for California on Tuesday night to spend a few weeks' holiday.
During their absence David will be the guest of his friend David Floyd.

Mr. Art Wray of Calgary spent Sunday here with his father Dr. C. Wray.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrin of Calgary were the guests of Mr. and
Mrs. Jno. Kitchen over the week end.

Mrs. J. Kilner and infant son returned from the Medicine Hat
Maternity hospital on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lang and David left on Tuesday for California where they will holiday for a few weeks. While there they will take in the Exposition
at San Francisco.

Mr. Geo. Kitchen and infant daughter arrived home from California on Saturday. They were accompanied by Mrs. Kitchen's parents, who returned to Calgary on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Gardiner-
Smith arrived from Montreal on Friday. Mr. Gardiner-Smith proposed to Vancouver on Saturday but Mrs. Gardiner-Smith will spend a couple of weeks here with her mother Mrs. Hicks before leaving for her home in Vancouver.

MR. R. A. IRWIN

Made-To-Measure Tailoring Specialist, From

FASHION-CRAFT

VISIT

W. B. Dempster, Medicine Hat

With a Selection from the Newest and Smartest Patterns and Fabrics Produced by World Renowned Mills

On Monday, February 27th, 1933

Make Your Appointment Now FOR THAT Spring Permanent AT THE

Elite Beauty Parlor

South Railway St. Medicine Hat

Experienced Operators

When in Medicine Hat Call at the SNACK SPOT

Swedish Ice Cream,
Soft Drinks, Hamburgers,
Lunches and Coffee

Opp. Asinibolita Hotel

2nd Street Medicine Hat

UPHOLSTERING

Get Your Furniture
Made Like New

Good Work Guaranteed By Experienced Workman

INQUIRE AT THE
REDCLIFF HOTEL

FRED PALNAU

CLINIC NOTICE

The Redcliff Baby Clinic will be held in the Town Hall on the following dates:

February 15th, March 1st,
March 15th, and March 29th.

FOR SALE: Five room house in good condition, situated on First
St. North. Apply at the Review
Office.